TWG SEMI-ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING

On April 17, almost six months to the day from the Organizational Meeting, THE WASHINGTON GROUP held its Semi-Annual Membership Meeting at the Capitol Hill Club. With about 50 members in attendance, the Board of Directors presented their semi-annual report.

Natalie Sluzar, TWG President, opened the meeting with a general report on the activities of the Board of Directors for the past six months. She pointed out that the Board has met eleven times since the Organizational Meeting and that there have been ten TWG functions in the last six months. These functions included social events such as the Atlantic City bus trip and the Christmas Party and more substantive events such as the Distinguished Speaker Series involving Edward Derwinski and Michael Yarymowych and the Friday Evening Forums with Eugene Iwanciw and Dr. Bohdan Bociurkiw.

TWG Treasurer Yaro Bihun then presented the financial report. For the period of October 18, 1984 to March 31, 1985, TWG had revenue of $7,985.90 primarily from membership dues and professional functions. The expenses for that period were $3,038.93. The primary expenses were for professional functions and the publication of TWG NEWS. The balance as of March 31 was $4,946.97.

Orest Deychakiwsky, Membership Director, presented his report next. He stated that all membership goals have been exceeded and that current membership is at 137. Of that total, 121 are full members, 15 are associate members, and 1 is a student member. While most members are from the Washington area, there are associate members from Michigan, Ohio, Georgia, Texas, Connecticut, New York,

UKRAINIAN MILLENNIUM OF CHRISTIANITY

by Yaro Bihun

Ukrainians in the free world are facing a major challenge to their plans of celebrating the millennium of Ukrainian Christianity in 1988, according to an expert on church-state relations in the Soviet Union.

Dr. Bohdan Bociurkiw said on March 29 that the Soviet government and the Moscow Russian Orthodox Patriarchate, in a marriage of convenience, are well into an all-out effort to give the millennium an all-Russian character, denying the legitimacy of Ukrainian celebrations in the West

And even though Pope John Paul II has placed himself on the side of the Ukrainian bishops, Dr. Bociurkiw said, his position is being actively challenged within the Vatican by those who would rather see the Roman Catholic Church side with the Moscow-sponsored celebration.

Dr. Bociurkiw spoke about the history of Christianity in Ukraine and the issues involved in celebrating its millenium at the Friday Evening Forum for Ukrainian Professionals sponsored by The Washington Group, with over 50 people in attendance.

The atheistic regime and the Moscow Patriarchate have ideologically joined in this effort, said Dr. Bociurkiw, because of its "immense symbolic and propaganda value," demonstrating, on the one hand, the "unity, as some Soviet sources have used the term, of the Russian peoples...in the Russian Church," and on the other, the "unity of the various nationalities in the single Soviet people -- the new historical entity as Soviet propaganda would have it."

ENGLISH OR UKRAINIAN?

In a letter (page 4) to the TWG Board of Directors and the Editorial Staff of TWG NEWS, Oxana Horodecka raises the issue of the use of Ukrainian at TWG functions and in TWG NEWS.

Ms. Horodecka's points are well-taken and have been the subject of discussion among the Board of Directors since before TWG was formally founded. Probably all TWG members are interested in preserving the Ukrainian identity and culture. Language is an important, though not the only, aspect of culture and identity. The fact that the Ukrainian language is being systematically destroyed by russification in Ukraine makes the situation more critical.

On the other hand, the purpose of TWG is to provide a mechanism for Ukrainian-American professionals to meet, establish contacts, and work together. Easy communications is a major factor in that effort.

The challenge is to find a solution, not as easily identified as the problem, to this situation. Ms. Horodecka's compromise deserves some consideration. It must be understood, however, that non-Ukrainian speaking members, of which there are many, would be totally excluded from those events conducted in Ukrainian. For example, there may have been members at the Millennium presentation interested in the subject but unable to understand Ukrainian. It is difficult to establish, a priori, which functions will attract only members who understand Ukrainian.

TWG NEWS is published in English so that it can be easily read by all TWG members. There is no policy, however, to exclude Ukrainian articles. It should be kept in mind that the time required to write, edit, lay-out, and mail TWG NEWS is extensive. It is difficult enough to get members to submit articles in English and often articles must be re-typed in the lay-out process. If a member wishes to contribute an article in Ukrainian and is willing to work with the staff in the process, TWG NEWS will gladly print that article.

The general issue of use of the Ukrainian language at TWG functions, however, remains unresolved. It is an issue that probably should be discussed and decided by the membership of TWG and by consensus and not by majority vote. It is vital that TWG remain a strong and viable organization for everyone.

MORE ON JOHN HODIAK

The (rather poor) photo of John Hodiak on page 8 (April issue) is probably a private photo. In the film Lifeboat (1943/44) he was bearded.

I'm an old collector and have about a quarter of a million stills and photographs dealing with film from its earliest time.

Lifeboat (based on a "story" by John Steinbeck and directed by Alfred Hitchcock) was released in 1944. The story deals with a group of survivors from a ship torpedoed by a U-Boat. John Hodiak was one of the survivors. He was never a great actor and was out-acted by professionals, such as Walter Slezak, William Bendix, Henry Hull, Hume Cronyn, even Canada Lee (all in Lifeboat). Tallulah Bankhead--a stage actress--was not in films since 1932. This was her first role after 11 years of absence from the screen. (There was some wartime propaganda in this film!)

The same season (1943/44) John Hodiak was also in the pro-Soviet film Song of Russia (with Robert Taylor and Susan Peters), directed by Gregory Ratoff; the film was later criticized by the Un-American Activities Committee. Of course, Russia was "our ally"--but a Ukrainian who had any idea of Russia's intentions would have refused to participate. Evidently, Mr. Hodiak did not care, or did not know any better.

Unlike Jack Palance, John Hodiak did not have a distinct screen personality. Movie fans do not remember his films (by the way, despite Tallulah Bankhead's popularity on stage, hardly anybody remembers her films). Hodiak's "most rewarding" role was that of Major Joppolo (if he knew

UNCLE, UNCLE

So Alright, already, here's the $25.00. I was surprised to read that the April 1985 issue of TWG NEWS was going to be my last. Hopefully, with the extra $13.00 you can schedule up some more substantial events.

I was also pleasantly surprised to see my letter concerning a proposed Ukrainian American Convention this Fall in Washington, D.C. printed therein. I hope that TWG follows up on the idea. I think the Ukrainian Community in the USA needs it, deserves it. Don't let the ball be dropped. Build on two years of getting thousands of Ukrainians in one place at one time. But this time, get them to act on something constructive, rather than sending them home tired, mad, and disappointed. However, your editor, typist did a pretty good hack job on my letter. I guess its the thought that counts.

Keep up with those cartoons. However, I must say, I like the ones in the UTS News-letter, which by the way I get for free, better.

COMMUNITY ADVISORY PANEL CREATED

by Marta Pereyma

In an attempt to involve the Ukrainian community in the final planning stage of the Ukrainian Monument-Mausoleum, Nicolas and Alicia Andreadis convened a meeting of all representatives of area civic organizations and churches on March 30, 1985.

The Ukrainian National Memorial Cemetery and National Monument-Mausoleum are located in South East Washington at Pennsylvania and Southern Avenues. To be completed by 1988, this Monument-Mauseleum complex will include a Ukrainian Heritage Museum, Archives, and Research Center. In addition to providing a final resting place, the complex's overriding purpose is to present Ukrainian history and culture and to depict the Ukrainian experience in the United States.

The Monument-Mausoleum has some 20,000 square feet of space available for artistic expression and ornamentation. The administrators are open to ideas, suggestions, and comments on the subjects to be represented as well as the media of execution. They also welcome names of Ukrainian artists and artisans who may be interested in cooperating on this venture.

This initial meeting concluded with the creation of an advisory panel comprised of those present. TWG's liaison with the Community Advisoty Panel is Marta Pereyma. Any member wishing to contribute ideas for this undertaking is encouraged to call her at 703-528-3075.

PACKAGING THE PROFESSIONALS

WHY ENGLISH, WHY NOT UKRAINIAN?

by Oxana Horodecka

Let me begin by stating that the founders of The Washington Group should be congratulated for identifying the need for this kind of an organization and then doing something about it. I hope that the level of interest and participation continues and that this organization becomes a lasting positive force in the community.

I haven't attended all of the meetings to date, but I have gotten reports on those that I have missed. I have attended two to date: the one on the Millennium of Christianity in the Ukraine and the one featuring the film on emigres in the U.S. I would like to raise a question, which is of importance to me, and I suspect, to other Washington Group members. Why are all the meetings conducted in English?

I can understand perfectly that not everyone has had the advantage of growing up in a bilingual home, of graduating after 8 or 12 years from a Ukrainian school with a matriculation (matura) degree, of participating in various Ukrainian organizations, etc. I fully realize that lots of people don't feel as proficient in Ukrainian as they do in English, and therefore don't use the language because they don't come off as sophisticated or as cool in Ukrainian as they do in English. I know that a lot of younger professionals speak to one another exclusively in English, and I can anticipate the myriad of reasons they would list for doing this. On a personal level, I can respect the fact that that is their choice and their business. On an organizational level, it becomes a matter of concern and a point of business for the whole group.

Specifically, because so many people in the course of our history have sacrificed their lives to preserve our culture and our language, I think we owe it to them and to ourselves to raise this issue. We frequently complain about what the Russians, the Poles, the Turks (you name it) have done to us, to destroy our national identity. One of the most successful ways of doing this is to forbid the use of one's own language, or at least suppress it. So what's our excuse? It's 1985, we live in a free country, nobody is persecuting us, we are a group of educated professionals, and we are not exercising this option. I think that we need to stop and think about this for a moment.

My personal preference would be to conduct all of our meetings in Ukrainian. Other similar organizations (Ukrainian and non-Ukrainian) propagate their own language. I realize, however, that it would be unfair to those who don't have the kind of linguistic advantages that I have had in my upbringing. And, it would be unfair to those who can barely speak the language or can't speak it at all, and who might be members of this organization. So, I would like to propose a fair compromise: why not conduct half of the meetings in Ukrainian, half in English? That way, neither side would be discriminated against. The Program Committee or the Board of Directors could make the determination which programs would lend themselves better to Ukrainian, which to English. For ex.: the Millennium of Christianity program would have certainly lent itself better to a Ukrainian presentation, in my opinion. However, the upcoming program on investments would probably be much more effective in English.

The same thing applies to the TWG Newsletter. Here again, I realize that it's much easier and faster to sit down and type something in English, for most of us. However, there are those who type in Ukrainian (Voice of America staff, and others), everyday. They might be willing to bang out a column or two per issue, or even put out a whole issue in Ukrainian. It's not impossible, it's just a question of a little bit more effort. I am not recommending a bilingual issue, because again it might be unrealistic. But why not do a Ukrainian column at least once in a blue moon, or give someone a Ukrainian column to write for every issue?

By comparison, the latter question is less important than the former. Both need to be considered (again?). Someone had to bring up this issue. It's important enough to me that I don't mind being the heavy. I would like to suggest that you bring this to the membership, informally, formally, by taking a survey, by conducting a poll, whatever you deem appropriate. You might be surprised at the results.

(Ed. Note: The above was a letter to the Board of Directors of TWG and the Editorial Staff of TWG NEWS. It is printed as an article due to its length. This month's editorial addresses this issue.)

SPOTLIGHT ON

MICHAEL WARIS, JR.

Michael Waris is an partner in the law firm of Baker & McKenzie which has over 700 attorneys in 31 offices located in 22 countries. He has come a long way since growing up in Doylestown, the county seat of Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

While he was born in Philadelphia, he grew up in Doylestown and graduated from Doylestown High School in 1938. He went on to become an honors graduate of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Commerce and Finance with a B.S. in Economics. In 1944 he graduated cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania Law School after serving as managing editor of the Law Review and being elected to the law school honor society, the Order of the Coif.

A specialist in tax law, Michael Waris began a distinguished career in the federal government after law school. He first came to Washington in 1946 to serve as the legal assistant to the chief judge of the United States Tax Court. Two years later, he moved to New York to be the chief counsel of the IRS where he tried tax cases for the government for four years.

Upon returning to Washington, he worked in the formulation and enactment of tax legislation as well as the development and drafting of regulations implementing the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. After those three years of work with the IRS, Mr. Waris spent seven years in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury, eventually rising to the position of associate tax legislative counsel, the highest category of non-political legal positions in the tax structure of the Treasury Department.

His tenure with the Treasury Department was accompanied with numerous commendations including one by the House Ways and Means Committee which commended Waris "as one of the outstanding attorneys in the Treasury Department for a long time."

After 16 distinguished years in the federal government, Mike joined Baker & McKenzie in 1962 rising to the position of partner. He is an expert on federal tax law, with emphasis on international problems, tax litigation, and tax legislation.

In addition to his office work, Michael has lectured extensively throughout the United States before bar associations and other professional organizations and at universities including the University of Southern California, Tulane University, New York University, and George Washington University. He has also served as an active member of the law faculty of Georgetown University and has published numerous articles on the topic of tax laws.

Combining his dedication to his career and his commitment to his Ukrainian background, Mike was instrumental in organizing the Ukrainian-American Bar Association and currently serves on the Board of Governors and as Vice-President. Added to these responsibilities, Mr. Waris serves as chairman of both the Fund-Raising Campaign and the Building Committee of the Holy Family Ukrainian Catholic National Shrine in Washington.

Michael met his wife, Mary Luschyk, in church here in Washington. Mary is originally from Berwick, PA. and has a distinguished career of her own. She worked for governors and generals, in the Bureau of the Budget, and for the U.S. Mission for Aid to Greece in Greece. She also served as the personal secretary to Senator Edward Martin of Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Waris currently reside in Bethesda, Maryland and are active members of Holy Family Ukrainian Catholic Church.

ARTS IN THE CAPITAL, UKRAINIAN STYLE

The Metropolitan Opera Company is coming to Washington at the end of May. Coming with the MET to the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts are two Ukrainians-- Paul Plishka and Andrij Dobriansky. Mr. Plishka will be performing in Verdi's Simon Boccanegra on Friday, May 31st. Both Mr. Plishka and Mr. Dobriansky will be appearing in Tchaikovsky's Eugene Onegin on Saturday, June 1st. Those wishing to attend either or both of the performances are encouraged to try to get tickets early since the MET's appearances tend to attract many opera buffs.

TWG is planning a "welcome" for Messrs. Plishka and Dobriansky during their stay in Washington. Details will be forthcoming in the next few weeks. Plan to attend.

UKRAINIAN TRIVIA

The answer to last month's trivia question, a "Who Am I?", is: John Hodiak. Our thanks to the Cerny family for providing additional information on Mr. Hodiak in our "Letters to the Editor" column. Unfortunately, they were not the first correct answer. That was provided by Major Leonid Kondratiuk of Alexandria, VA, who wins a Ukrainian vase.

This month's Trivia Question is in the form of a "What Am I?" The answer must include what the building was, when it was built, and for what purpose it was constructed.

The correct answer with the earliest postmark will receive a prize. The answer and the winner will be announced in the next TWG NEWS. Good Luck!

PERSPECTIVE ON UKRAINIAN MUSIC

On April 26th, about 35 TWG members were treated to a delightful, informative survey of Ukrainian piano music by Dr. Juliana Osinchuk, a concert pianist and a member of TWG. The presentation, the third in the Friday Evening Forum series, took place at St. Sophia Religious Institute.

Dr. Osinchuk presented a brief background of the piano, a recent instrument which evolved from other keyboard instruments. She then began with Ukrainian composers from the 17th and 18th centuries. Throughout history, most noted Ukrainian composers served at the court in Petersburg. The playing of the piano was also usually restricted to the upper class simply because of the costs involved.

While Juliana traced the evolution of Ukrainian piano music, she focused in on a few composers. The first was Dmitro Bortnyansky, who served at the Petersburg court and studied extensively in Italy. He utilized Ukrainian themes in many of his sonatas. His impact was so great that all music used in the Russian empire had to be by him or approved by him.

Of course, Mykola Lysenko, the Father of Ukrainian Music, was covered. Lysenko was the first true Ukrainian music scholar in that he collected Ukrainian folk music, catalogued it, and took extensive notes about its origins. He also founded what is now the Conservatory of Music in Kiev.

Dr. Osinchuk highlighted a number of 20th century Ukrainian pianists and composers. She pointed out that her dissertation for the Doctorate in Music from Juilliard was on Victor Kosenko.

Throughout the presentation, Juliana used taped music to illustrate the development of Ukrainian piano music. She also pointed out the difficulty in the subject due to lack of surviving materials. In addition, there is no central library that collects and catalogues Ukrainian music. Juliana urged anyone who has Ukrainian music to get copies of it to her.

Dr. Osinchuk began her career at the ripe old age of 11 with a performance at Carnegie Hall. Since that time, she has attracted critical acclaim throughout the Pennsylvania, and Paris, France. He vowed a greater effort to organize student members and pointed out that students membership is only $10.

The last report was presented by the Public Relations Director, Eugene Iwanciw, who stated that TWG NEWS has been the major undertaking of the Public Relations Committee. He thanked all the members of that committee for their work. He also pointed out that all TWG events have been advertised in the Ukrainian-American press and, when appropriate, the American press. Asking for continued support in the providing of information and articles, he said that TWG NEWS would continue to publish regularly as an information source for the membership.

Ms. Sluzar then outlined some of the planned programs for the balance of the year. She stated that Mr. Powstenko has offered the use of his beach house for a weekend to TWG. A beach party for TWG members will be organized. In addition, the Friday Evening Forum will be continued with two scheduled for April 26 and May 3. A Distinguished Speakers Dinner is tentatively being planned for June and a Fall Ball is scheduled for October 19 with the band "Iskra".

The Board answered various questions from the membership present. Questions focused on ideas for projects and membership drives. Ms. Sluzar emphasized that the Board of Directors could not organize all the events and that participation of the membership in the various committees was critical for success.

Ms. Sluzar also announced that Wolodymyr Sulzynskij elected to the post of Special Projects Director has resigned due to the extensive travel which his new job requires. Martha Mostovych has been elected by the Board of Directors to fill the vacancy of Special Projects Director.

After the meeting, a reception was held which continued until 9:00 p.m. A number of non-members joined the reception. During the reception, Ms. Sluzar introduced a guest visiting from Florida, Michael Kostiw. Mr. Kostiw has decided to run as a Republican for the 16th Congressional seat of Florida. He said a few words to the TWG members present. Natalie also congratulated Yaromyr and Chrystia Oryshkewych who recently had a baby boy. The crowd sang them "Mnohaya Lita".

NATIONAL BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP FOR WASHINGTON

Contrary to what The Washington Post and the national media reported, it is Washington and not Philadelphia that can claim to hold the national basketball championship. True, Villanova beat Georgetown in the NCAA final round. But Washington beat New York in the crucial championship game.

While most people focused on the NCAA tournament, the Washington Plast branch travelled to Bayonne, N.J. to compete in the only regularly scheduled basketball tournament held for Ukrainian youth. The tournament, for Plast members between the ages of 12 and 18, is sponsored by Orden Khrestonostsiv and is in its ninth year.

The Championship team from Washington consisted of Danylo Bazarko, Andriy Bihun, Lesyk Francuzenko, Markian Hawryluk, Marko Koropecykj, Lesyk Pasczyn, and Yurchyk Zabijaka.

The March 31 tournament began with a round robin format of 16 minute games divided into two halves. Seven teams from Washington, Cleveland, New York, Newark, Passaic, and Philadelphia (providing two teams) competed, the largest turnout for the tournament to date. Yet, Philadelphia, even with two teams, could not duplicate the Villanova performance against the superior Washington team.

The round robin tournament left Cleveland in third place and put Washington and New York into a tie for first. Each team ended with a 5-1 record with Washington's loss coming at the hands of New York and New York's loss at the hands of Cleveland.

The championship game presented Washington a chance to avenge its earlier loss to New York. After 16 excruciating minutes of exciting basketball, Washington emerged the champions with a two point win over New York. The final score was 17-15. Danylo Bazako, voted the tournament's most valuable player and high-scorer for the tournament, led his Washington team to victory.

While the national media missed this exciting tournament, TWG NEWS did not. TWG congratulates our national champions for representing our city so well. We look forward to welcoming the team members to TWG in the future.

"In other words, both join hands in this particular respect in trying to demonstrate to other Christians, to other Churches, to the people within the USSR, to Ukrainians abroad, that there is really no problem: there is no nationality problem; there is no church problem. Indeed, the only problems are the emigres who are not representatives of the Ukrainian people in this respect," said Dr. Bociurkiw.

Dr. Bociurkiw said he feels that the Ukrainian community in the United States now is on the right track. "And indeed the good news is that in the United States that major effort has just occurred, that there will be a joint celebration of the millennium by Ukrainians in the United States, and I hope by Ukrainians united around the World Congress of Free Ukrainians." He was referring to the National Committee on the Millennium of Christianity in Ukraine, which was formed a week earlier in Philadelphia. The committee's chairman, Dr. Yuriy Starosolsky was in the audience listening to Dr. Bociurkiw's remarks.

According to Dr. Bociurkiw, the millennium celebration has many important aspects: symbolic, political, public relations, and academic. He said the academic aspect was of special importance, because, as he put it, "there ought to be something more lasting" than the outburst of celebrations, ceremonies, demonstrations -- even though all are "very necessary and very useful undertakings." He cited the millennium project undertaken by the Harvard Ukrainian Research Institute and its associated chairs as being "of special importance" in the millennium endeavor.

"The only weapon that we have on our side, if we work at it, is the truth. And that is the weapon that calls for a lot of effort," he said.

Ukrainians cannot deny any claim to the millennium to other Slavic peoples, Dr. Bociurkiw said, but "we have to speak for ourselves." The event, after all, happened in the capital of Ukraine, he said. "We do have that kind of direct claim to it."

Dr. Bociurkiw is a professor of political science at Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada. He is currently in Washington as a fellow at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars.

United States and Europe. In addition to training and studying at The Juilliard School in New York, she has trained at the Conservatoire National De Musique in Paris, Fontainebleau Schools of the Fine Arts in Fontainebleau, France, and Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria. She has won numerous honors and awards.

Her presentation at the TWG Forum was enjoyed by all in attendance. She presented an aspect of Ukrainian music and culture which often goes unnoticed by the Ukrainian community, much less non-Ukrainians.
