

THE WASHINGTON GROUP

AN ASSOCIATION OF UKRAINIAN-AMERICAN PROFESSIONALS

TWG TOUR II

As a follow-up to its first immensely successful trip to Ukraine in 1989, the Washington Group is planning another trip October 12-28, 1990. This is a unique opportunity for travelers to combine sightseeing with professional development as they meet with their professional counterparts in Ukraine. Last year's participants met with numerous prominent cultural, political and civic leaders in Kiev, Lviv and Odessa who play an important role in Ukrainian life today. This year's trip will again offer such opportunities.

This year's itinerary includes Kiev and Lviv, with optional side trips to Ternopil, Kaniv, Pochaiv and a village in the Carpathians. The overseas carrier is AIR FRANCE and the trip will include a stopover in Paris on the way back to the United States.

The TWG trip promises to be an exciting one, following as it does on the heels of the proclamation of sovereignty. Participants will have a chance to watch the proceedings of the first annual Rukh convention which will be held in Kiev October 18-21. Several unique cultural events will be taking place in Lviv during TWG's stay in that city, including a "Yarmarok Urozhayu" (Harvest Festival) and a festival of Ukrainian wedding music and rituals.

TWG LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE 1990 UKRAINE: BUILDING THE FUTURE TOGETHER

Planning for the fourth TWG Leadership Conference is well underway. The Conference will take place during the Columbus Day Weekend, October 5-7, 1990, at the Hotel Washington in Washington, DC. This year's theme is a follow-up on the 1989 conference and will examine how the Ukrainian diaspora can help build Ukraine's future. Whereas last year's conference focused on the dynamically changing political, social, cultural environment in Ukraine, the 1990 conference will look to the future at how we can take advantage of the benefits of this change in order to establish contacts which would be mutually beneficial to Ukrainians in Ukraine as well as to those in the diaspora. Conference speakers will include representatives from Ukraine and experts in the West.

After a kick-off with the traditional TWG birthday party (our 6th), the conference will begin Saturday morning at 9:00am with the first of three panel discussions. The opening session will focus on the issue of examining existing and creating new strategies for building an infrastructure between Ukraine and the diaspora. Addressed will be such topics as sustained communications (e.g. teaching English in Ukrainian, translation services, bi-lingual publications;); enhancing institutional connections (U.S. consulate in Kiev and Ukrainian consulate in U.S.); providing technical assistance such as computer and management expertise, publishing services; and the possible establishment of a Ukraine/America Institute as a clearinghouse to facilitate exchanges. After the morning session, the conference will break for lunch, a keynote address and time to meet, talk, look at display tables.

The Saturday afternoon session will focus on examining Ukraine's image and the message that is being delivered to opinion makers and government officials. Panelists will be asked to address topics such as "what messages do Ukrainians want to convey?"; the existing perceptions and attitudes of the American government and general population toward Ukraine; providing technical assistance in helping Ukraine convey its message to the world.

UKRAINIAN TRIVIA

Dr. Stephan Krop of McLean, Virginia is one of our most accurate and consistent respondents to the monthly "trivia" question. However, this month we also received a response from an equally knowledgable, though less determined respondent, Dr. Krop's daughter, Dr. Elaine Krop Wallenberg of Laurel Springs, NJ. In response to last month's question "which foreign power controlled Odessa in the period 1917-1920?" she writes: "Romania controlled Odessa from 1917-1920. I can't allow my father, Dr. Stephan Krop to answer each question - I'm challenging him! He'll win of course - he's a true Rennaissance man, loves researching our Ukrainian roots, and is the most brilliant man I know." Well, Dr. Elaine Krop, Father Really Does Know Best. From 1917-1920, Odessa was controlled by France, Dr. Stephan Krop's response.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

NEW DIRECTOR AT UNIS OFFICE

On August 1, Natalka Kormeluk officially came on board as the new Director of the Ukrainian National Information Service (UNIS), the Washington Office of the Ukrainian Congress Committee of America. Former director Irena Chalupa left this spring for a position at Radio Liberty/ Munich. Natalka, a resident of Washington since 1973 is a long-time Ukrainian community activist and spent four months in Ukraine last year, traveling, visiting family and teaching English. She has a BA in history and political science, an MFA and has spent the last 20 years in the field of education. She is a talented artist and recently completed the design and construction of the traditional Ukrainian ceramic tile pich (warming stove) on display at the newly-opened Ukrainian Nationality Room, part of the Cathedral of Learning at the University of Pittsburgh (see ANNOUNCEMENT below). Continuing with UNIS as a research and program assistant is Tamara Gallo who received her MA in International Studies from George Washington University in May and staffed the office this summer.

UNA OFFICE MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

The Washington Office of the Ukrainian National Association has moved to a new location. The new address is Ukrainian National Association Washington Office; Hall of States; 400 North Capital Street, NW; Suite 859; Washington, DC 20001. The phone and FAX numbers remain the same - 202/347-8529 - phone; 202/347-8631 - FAX.

TWG DIRECTORIES - LIKE THE PROVERBIAL CHECK - ARE IN THE MAIL

We know we promised them "months" ago - but the new TWG Directory ran across several glitches, among them the unexpected change in phone numbers in several dozen Federal departments and agencies. But the new, smaller, easier-to-use TWG directories have been printed and are in the mail. PLEASE, PLEASE check for accuracy (especially zipcodes, area codes and phone numbers) since TWG plans to publish a mid-year addendum of corrections and additions.

(Actually it was from 1918 and editor apologizes for typo). Odessa was under Romanian control from 1941-1944. Thanks to both Dr's. Krop!

This month's question is: Within which Ukrainian city's "mafia" did Brezhnev rise to power?

ONCE UPON A LEGEND....

Remember the times you sat at the dining room table, surrounded by relatives and holiday food, and SOMEBODY would bring up the story about the pot of gold? You know the story, the one about the time that one of Mazepa's cronies carted a gold-filled barrel to England, deposited it in the Self-Reliance Credit Union of London and now it's now worth zillions of dollars. Of course, you remember silently you'd reach for the varenyky, roll your eyes, and mutter under your breath "Jolly-good! A barrel of gold!"

Well be ashamed, ye of little faith. Whereas most people go looking for their pot of gold at the end of rainbows, we lucky Ukrainians have tellers at the Bank of England scurrying through vaults looking for ours. According to June 23 headline in the Financial Times of London, "Ukrainians call the Bank of England to account." Apparently, "the gold was lodged with the Bank of England...by Colonel (Hetman) Polubotok...before he set out for St. Petersburg for talks with the Russian imperial government. Peter the Great promptly threw the unfortunate Col. Polubotok in jail, and he died there, having bequeathed the gold to a sovereign and independent Ukraine." Yes, well. After almost three hundred years, the ill-fated Hetman Polubotok's well-intentioned deposit gives new meaning to the concept of long term investment.

A July 24 New York Times article states that "Ukrainian lawmaker Roman Ivanchyuk estimated that the gold would be worth $29 trillion at today's gold prices, taking into account accrued interest." But a Bank of England spokesman said the estimated amount appeared "fanciful, to say the least." Sheesh. What a stick in the mud.

According to a August 5 Ukrainian Weekly article, attempts in 1908 and 1958 to validate the claim failed. In any case, "Ukrainian pro-independence leaders...are not in a hurry to retrieve the rebellious hetman's gold. Said Mykhailo Horyn, leader of the Rukh Secretariat, "First we will gain independence, and then we shall talk about gold." Okay, you worried leprechans, breathe easy.

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR -

As a general policy, TWG NEWS does not publish editorials. The purpose of this publication is to be an information exchange for, by, and about members, their activities and as such does not offer official TWG NEWS opinions about members, member activities or world events. However, now that a full TEN DAYS have gone by without a major newspaper or magazine article about Ukraine, for this issue of TWG NEWS, I am going to make an exception to the no-editorial policy. It is my humble sense that after years of tirelessly banging on doors, beating our heads against walls, insisting that Ukraine is not Russia, that Russia is not the Soviet Union, and as we watch the myth of the Soviet Union dissolve, somehow one of our communities deepest, most heartfelt emotions has not been properly, succinctly expressed in any editorial or article that I've read. So, here goes:

ARE WE SMUG, OR WHAT???

Thank you ever so much for your indulgence.

NOTES ON MEMBERS

ROSTYK CHOMIAK and MARTA BOHACHEVSKY CHOMIAK spent a month in Poland and Ukraine this spring. They arrived in Lviv in April, just in time to attend the first session of the newly-elected Lviv Oblast Council. The Chomiaks also had the opportunity to attend Easter services (utrennya) at the newly-opened Church of the Transfiguration in Lviv. For Rostyk, this was an especially nostalgic trip; it was the first time that he had returned to his native Lviv since he left exactly 46 years ago. He noted that for him "nothing had changed"-what he witnessed now, especially the numerous opened churches which draw thousands of people to the liturgies, was just as he remembers from his childhood. The Chomiaks also attended two rock concerts, one at the recently renamed Lviv stadium, Ukrayina (formerly Druzhba). While in Kiev, Marta, author of Feminists Despite Themselves: Women in Ukrainian Community Life, 1884-1939, gave a presentation on the history of the women's movement in Ukraine to an audience of women involved with Rukh. Also during their stay in Kiev, Rostyk attended caucus meetings of the Ukrainian Supreme Soviet. After their return, Marta gave a presentation about the trip titled "Politics, Rock, and Religion" at the National Endowment for the Humanities in Washington, DC. Marta will return to Kiev this fall to participate in the International Conference of Ukrainian Studies. Meanwhile, DORA CHOMIAK, Marta and Rostyk's daughter is in Ukraine doing research for her senior thesis titled "Local Politics in Ukraine and the U.S." Dora, a senior at Princeton University, will spend a month in Kiev and Lviv, talking with members of oblast councils.

LIDA CHOPIVSKY, TWG vice president, and Randall Benson were married on May 19, 1990, at St. Sophia Orthodox Cathedral in Washington, D.C., in a traditional Ukrainian ceremony performed by His Grace Archbishop Constantin of Chicago. The couple traveled to French Polynesia for their honeymoon, visiting Tahiti, Bora Bora and Moorea, and sailed around the Society Islands. Lida is Director of Special Projects for United Psychiatric Group; Randy is a veterinarian at Benson Animal Hospital (where the couple met when Lida took in her dog and two cats for treatment). Mnohaya Lita, Lida and Randy!

OREST DEYCHAKIWSKY, staff member at the U.S. (Helsinki) Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe, recently returned from a three-week stint in Copenhagen and Bulgaria. In Copenhagen, Orest was a member of the U.S. delegation to the 35-nation CSCE Conference on the Human Dimension. One of the highlights of Orest's stay in Copenhagen was the opportunity to meet with Ukrainians Evhen Proniuk and Oles Shevchenko. The two former political prisoners were in Copenhagen to meet with the various national delegations to the conference, attend sessions, and hold press conferences to raise the issues of political prisoners and churches in Ukraine. Orest noted that their participation was an event that could not have been imagined even a year ago. Proniuk is a member of the Kiev City Council; Shevchenko is a deputy of the Ukrainian Supreme Soviet. June 8-12, Orest was in Bulgaria to observe the first free elections in that country in over four decades. On election day, he traveled with U.S. Embassy officials to the predominantly ethnic-Turkish regions in south-central Bulgaria, where they observed voting in some 20 polling stations.

YURIY DEYCHAKIWSKY and IRENA EVA MOSTOVYCH-DEYCHAKIWSKY are the proud new parents of Dennis Alexis, their second child, born July 23 in Washington, DC. Denysyk joins 22 month-old brother Danylko in, as Papa Yura put it, "creating havoc and joy." Congratulations Ina and Yura!

PAULA DOBRIANSKY was nominated by President Bush on August 6 to be Associate Director for Programs for the United States Information Agency. In her new position, she will be responsible for all programs managed by USIA including the press service, publications, traveling exhibits (including those to Ukraine), and research. Currently she is Deputy Assistant Secretary for Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs at the U.S. Department of State and previously she was Director of East European Affairs with the National Security Council.

BOHDAN A. FUTEY was recently honored by the Ukrainian Free University in Munich. He received an Honoris Causa Doctor of Law Degree, presented by the president of the university, Dr. Theodore Ciuciura. The ceremony took place Tuesday, July 31, 1990 in Munich. In his acceptance speech, Judge Futey spoke on the topic "Elections: The Initial Attempt at Self-rule in Contemporary Ukraine." Judge Futey was in Ukraine during the March elections. In attendance at the ceremony were students of the Ukraininan Free University, as well as guests from Eastern Europe and Ukraine, including People's Deputies and academicians. While in Munich, he met with Bohdan Nahaylo, director of the Ukrainian division, Radio Liberty. He then traveled to Frankfurt, where he met with representatives from Intercomputer, the joint venture corporation supplying equipment for the new information network being set up by Rukh in Ukraine. Financing of the computer/information network was managed by Ukraine 2000: The Washington Committee in Support of Ukraine, of which he is the chairman. Bonn, Judge Futey and TWG member from Canada, Cmdr. Yaromyr Korpecky, met with officials at the U.S. and the Canadian Embassies.

VOLODYMYR IWASHKIW had a letter-to-the-editor published in the May 5, 1990, Washington Post. Volodymyr's letter, titled "Fit to Be Free," responded to an earlier opinion-editorial piece by syndicated columnist Richard Cohen who argued that the nations of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union were inherently unfit for independence because of their alleged anti-Semitism. Cohen singled out Ukraine for 17th century Cossack uprisings and 20th century pogroms. In his letter, Volodymyr pointed out that the Cossack rebellion was directed against economic exploitation by Polish nobility, and the 20th century pogroms were orchestrated by ethnic Russians, not Ukrainians. Volodymyr also cited recent developments in Ukraine, including Rukh's condemnation of anti-Semitism, participation of Jewish refuseniks in pro-democracy demonstrations in Ukraine, and meetings between Israeli labor representatives and intellectuals with members of the Writers' Union of Ukraine.

IRENE JAROSEWICH, TWG NEWS editor, was featured in a May 30, 1990, Washington Post article on the Bush-Gorbachev summit. Irene was interviewed by the Post's religion editor, and was quoted in the article on the status of the Ukrainian Catholic Church in Ukraine and about summit-related activities of various communities that represent religious constituencies in the Soviet Union.

ADRIAN KARATNYCKY and IVAN LOZOWY both had opinion-editorials run on the topic of Ukrainian sovereignty. Adrian, director of research at the AFL-CIO department of international affairs had an op-ed titled "Now It's the Ukraine's Turn" in the July 18 Wall Street Journal and Ivan, research assistant in foreign policy at the Heritage Foundation had one titled "U.S. Should Back Ukraine" in the July 18 Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ROKSOLANA KARMAZYN and Petro Doroshenko were married on May 27, 1990, at St. Josaphat's Ukrainian Catholic Cathedral in Parma, Ohio. The couple spent their honeymoon in southern California and are now living in Syracuse, New York, where Petro is curator of painting and sculpture at the Everson Museum of Art. Before her marriage, Roksolana lived in Washington, D.C. Mnohaya Lita Roxsolana and Petro!

JAMES MACE, director of the U.S. Commission on the Ukraine Famine, will be completing the Commission's work in August, and will then travel to Kiev to attend two conferences on the 1932-33 Famine. The first conference in which Jim will participate is being sponsored by the Writers' Union of Ukraine, Rukh, the Memorial Society, and various Ukrainian academic groups. Jim is a member of the organizing committee for this conference, which is headed by Oles Honchar. After that, Jim will participate in the International Conference of Ukrainian Studies sponsored by the American Association of Ukrainianists. Earlier this year, Jim traveled to Ukraine at the invitation of Tovarystvo Ukrayina. He met with and lectured to various groups, including the Institute of History, the editors of the Ukrainian Soviet Encyclopedia, and the Memorial Society. He was fortunate to be in Kiev on February 7, the day that Soviet authorities officially admitted the existence and the deliberate, man-made nature of the 1932-33 Famine. For years, Jim has advocated that this was the case, in spite of official Soviet denial. Upon his return from Ukraine this fall, Jim will take a position as Senior Fellow at the Harriman Institute at Columbia University in New York City. He is also keeping busy as head consultant for the film "Holod-33," a documentary on the 1932-33 Famine, and as president of the American Friends of the Ukrainian Memorial Society.

WALTER PECHENUK, former assistant at the U.S. Commission on the Ukraine Famine, has moved to Edmonton, Alberta, for several months. He has accepted a position as research assistant to historian and TWG member DAVID MARPLES, at the Canadian Institute of Ukrainian Studies. Walter will work with German, Polish, and Ukrainian documents in preparation for a scholarly book on Ukrainians in World War II.

ALEXANDER SICH didn't exactly take it easy this summer. Alex, one of the editors of UPAB NEWS, TWG NEWS' sister newsletter for Ukrainian professionals in Boston, received his MA in Soviet Studies from Harvard on June 7. On June 9, he and Natalya Bobrek were married in Hunter, NY. On July 21, the couple left to escort a tour group to the Soviet Union. Beginning August 1, the couple began their year-long stay in Lviv where they will supervise ten high school exchange students in a Ukrainian language and studies program. They will also teach English to Ukrainians in Lviv. Rumor has it that they nonetheless managed to slip in a bit of time at Cape Cod before they left.

UKRAINIAN NATIONAL ASSOCIATION for membership information contact

John A. Kun (703) 620-0069, or P.O. Box 3732 Reston, VA 22090 Reverend OLEXA R. HARBUZIUK, President of the All-Ukrainian Evangelical Baptist Fellowship, along with his wife Sophia, spent May 25-June 25 in Ukraine where they traveled to Kiev, Zhytomyr, Boryslav, Rivne, Dubno, Mleniv, Lutske, Lviv, Rava-rushka, Troskavetch, Cher-Korosten, Kamyanets-Podilsk, Dynaivtsi, Khmelnitske, Kharkiv, Dnipropetrovske, Moskovske, and numerous smaller villages. Rev. Harbuziuk traveled at the invitation of the President of the Association of Baptist Churches in Ukraine, Yakiv Dyhonchenko. He met with Baptists in every city and each church service was attended by several hundred, and at times, up to 2,000 people. Besides meeting with religious leaders, Rev. Harbuziuk met with People's Deputy from Lviv and editor of Dzvin, Roman Fedoriv and in Kiev, with Ivan Dzyuba, as well as with many local leaders of Rukh in the cities he visited. He was impressed with the religious and national rebirth throughout Ukraine. He feels that there is no "turning back," though many people in Ukraine with whom he spoke are not as certain. He brought 25,000 Ukrainian Bibles to Kiev and noticed that everywhere he went, there was a tremendous desire for religious literature, Ukrainian Bibles in particular. He noticed that in all the cities, the church services and the choir singing was in Ukrainian, though the sermons in most of the eastern cities of Ukraine was in Russian. He found, nonetheless, that people were willing to speak Ukrainian, most knew it, but that the general habit was still to speak Russian among themselves. He offers as a point of perspective, however, that when he was in Dnipropetrovske in 1943, he was told unequivocally that nobody spoke or understood Ukrainian, whereas now, this was not the case. He was particularly touched by the prayer of one women who asked forgiveness for having forgotten how to pray in her native Ukrainian. In western Ukraine, according to Rev. Harbuziuk, the situation was markedly different. Without exception, Ukrainian was spoken. He was struck by the number of people in all the cities that he visited who expressed overwhelming concern about the consequences of Chornobyl and radiation illnesses, the fear of another nuclear accident, and in general, the anxiety about environmentally-caused health problems. He was interviewed by several Ukrainian media, among them newspapers who once wrote defamatory articles about his activities in the West. Though he still had to field some provocative questions, he found that most of the interviewers, in the end, wrote sympathetic articles, a switch from the days when he was called a "fascist", a "bourgeois imperialist" and a "traitor." This was Rev. Harbuziuk's first trip back to Ukraine since he left in 1944, and he is making plans to return to Ukraine within the year. Presently he is occupied with arrangements for placing approximately 600 new Baptist and Pentecostal refugees that are expected to arrive from the Soviet Union, mostly from Ukraine, in December. There are approximately 15,000 Ukrainian Baptists and Pentecostals in North and South America.

SOVIET DISUNION

Most of us need no introduction to the subject of the nationalities problem in the Soviet Union. After all, we are the ones who, as individuals or through organizations such as TWG, have been trying to educate the general public about the differences between Russia and the Soviet Union. So it was with obvious pleasure and pride that a group of about 50 TWG members and guests gathered Monday, July 2, at Sydney Kramer Books in International Square to celebrate the publication of Soviet Disunion: a History of the Nationalities Problem in the USSR with one of it's co-authors, Bohdan Nahaylo.

The 432-page scholarly work was published in the United States by Free Press, a MacMillan subsidiary. Although the book appeared on bookshelves just a few weeks ago, it is selling rapidly and has received favorable reviews.

In a The New York Times' book review July 15, the reviewer wrote that Soviet Disunion is an "excellent comprehensive resource on the events leading up to today's nationalities standoff in the Soviet Union." The reviewer further states that "the purpose of Soviet Disunion, a highly detailed overview of the history of nationalities problems in the Soviet Union, is to provide insight into the complex relationship between Russians and non-Russians and into the often dramatic nationality conflicts occurring today. Meticulously researched, the book is practically a day-by-day account of changes in Soviet nationality policy and national dissent for almost 80 years."

TWG members who gathered at Sydney Kramer Books had a chance to talk to Bohdan Nahaylo, who heads Radio Liberty's Ukrainian Service in Munich. Nahaylo, a writer and scholar, had written regularly on Soviet topics for the British and American press. After postgraduate study at the London School of Economics, he worked as Amnesty International's researcher on the Soviet Union. He was also a senior research analyst at Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty, where he is now responsible for Ukrainian language programming.

While in Washington, Nahaylo met with several journalists. He was interviewed on CNN as well as on C-span, where for 40 minutes he answered call-in questions. As if pre-ordained to underscore the importance of the publication of Soviet Disunion, a first-of-its-kind study of Soviet nationalities, Ukraine proclaimed its sovereignty soon after the publication appeared in bookstores, yet another affirmation that despite more than 70 years of cultural, political, and economic domination, the non-Russian peoples of the Soviet Union have not been subjugated.
